Media Highlight Gibson Dunn's Addition of Four-Partner Appellate Team Led by Jeffrey Wall in Washington, D.C., and New York

In the Media | April 30, 2026

The recent arrival of a four-partner appellate litigation team led by Jeffrey Wall in the firm's Washington, D.C. and New York offices drew significant coverage from leading legal and industry publications, which highlighted the team's extensive Supreme Court experience and the depth of the firm's Appellate and Constitutional Law Practice Group.

Law360 reported that the firm is expanding its appellate practice with the addition of Jeffrey, Morgan Ratner, Judson Littleton, and Yaira Dubin. Barbara Becker, the firm's Chair and Managing Partner, said in a statement, "Their arrival will represent a powerful addition to our litigation platform, further strengthening our ability to lead clients through their most consequential matters."

Jeffrey said in a statement reported by Reuters that he and his colleagues "are thrilled to be joining forces with Gibson Dunn," which he called a "powerhouse known for its depth of talent, strong culture, and extraordinary client base."

Global Legal Insights noted that Jeffrey, a former acting solicitor general, will serve as Co-Chair of the Appellate and Constitutional Law Practice Group, and that Yaira will head the firm's New York appellate practice. Reuters and Law360 both said that Jeffrey, Morgan, and Yaira have collectively argued more than 45 cases before the U.S. Supreme Court, and that the practice includes 11 other partners who have argued before the Court.

Allyson Ho, Co-Chair of the Appellate and Constitutional Law Practice Group, said in a statement reported by Law360, "They are exceptional advocates and trusted advisors, and their addition enhances our ability to deliver the highest level of appellate and Supreme Court representation to our clients."

The Wall Street Journal remarked that Gibson Dunn has traditionally had a strong presence in Supreme Court litigation and was the longtime home of Ted Olson, who won dozens of cases before the Court.
