Washington, D.C.

Stephanie (Stevie) Pearl is Of Counsel in the Washington, D.C. office of Gibson Dunn, where she is a member of the firm's Antitrust and Competition Practice Group.

Stevie's practice focuses on antitrust litigation, merger review, and government investigations. She brings a unique perspective from her recent tenure as a trial attorney in the U.S. Department of Justice's Antitrust Division, where she led complex investigations and litigated high-profile merger cases in the Transportation, Energy & Agriculture Section.

Prior to her government service, Stevie was an associate at Gibson Dunn in the Antitrust and Competition Practice Group, where she advised clients on antitrust compliance, merger clearance, and litigation strategy across a broad spectrum of industries, including healthcare, energy, digital platforms, and consumer products. Her work included providing strategic antitrust counsel and representing clients in federal court as well as before the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission.

Stevie began her legal career as a law clerk to the Honorable Anthony Scirica of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. She earned her J.D. and M.A. in History from Duke University, where she graduated cum laude and served as Executive Editor of the Duke Law Journal. She received her B.A. in History, cum laude, from Yale University.

She is admitted to practice in the District of Columbia, Massachusetts, and New York.
