U.S. Supreme Court Round-Up (September 2026)

Client Alert | September 25, 2026

Spearheaded by Miguel Estrada, the U.S. Supreme Court Round-Up keeps clients apprised of the Court's most recent actions. The Round-Up previews cases scheduled for argument, tracks the actions of the Office of the Solicitor General, and recaps recent opinions. The Round-Up provides a concise, substantive analysis of the Court's actions. Its easy-to-use format allows the reader to identify what is on the Court's docket at any given time, and to see what issues the Court will be taking up next. The Round-Up is the ideal resource for busy practitioners seeking an in-depth, timely, and objective report on the Court's actions. Gibson Dunn's U.S. Supreme Court Round-Up provides summaries of cases decided during the October 2025 Term, provides an overview of cases being argued during the October 2026 Term, and highlights other key developments on the Court's docket. During the October 2025 Term, the Court heard 64 oral arguments, released 56 opinions, and dismissed one case after argument as improvidently granted. To date, for the October 2026 Term, the Court has granted 25 petitions for a total of 24 arguments. View the Round-Up Here

Gibson Dunn has a longstanding, high-profile presence before the Supreme Court of the United States, appearing numerous times in the past decade in a variety of cases. Fifteen current Gibson Dunn lawyers have argued before the Supreme Court, and during the Court's ten most recent Terms, the firm has argued a total of 28 cases, including closely watched cases with far-reaching significance in the areas of intellectual property, securities, separation of powers, and federalism. Moreover, although the grant rate for petitions for certiorari is below 1%, Gibson Dunn's petitions have captured the Court's attention: Gibson Dunn has persuaded the Court to grant over 40 petitions for certiorari since 2006.
