Stephanie Silvano is an Assistant General Counsel based in Gibson Dunn's New York office. Prior to joining the Office of General Counsel, Stephanie practiced in the Firm's Litigation Department and Labor & Employment Practice Group, where she represented a diverse range of clients in complex employment and commercial matters in all phases of litigation. Stephanie was a key member of Gibson Dunn's trial team that successfully defended a major health care company in a federal jury trial against claims of age discrimination. She also has substantial experience representing clients in government and internal investigations, with a focus on employment issues.

Stephanie earned her Juris Doctor, magna cum laude, Order of the Coif, from Fordham University School of Law in 2015. While in law school, she served as an Articles & Notes Editor of the Fordham Law Review and a member of the Moot Court Board. Stephanie graduated, summa cum laude, from The George Washington University in 2012, with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree.

She is admitted to practice in the States of New York and New Jersey and before the U.S. District Courts for the Southern District of New York, Eastern District of New York, and District of New Jersey.
