Robert Blume Co-Authors Dow Jones Risk Journal's "The Value of Nothing Bad Happening"

Article | November 2, 2026

Dow Jones Risk Journal

Partner Robert Blume is co-author, along with Nscale chief legal officer Adam Rosman, of the Dow Jones Risk Journal's "The Value of Nothing Bad Happening," the first in a three-part series on measuring the value of a compliance program. In this article, they explore why a compliance program that works is so hard to defend and share lessons that can be learned about measuring absences from different fields.
