Daily Journal

Partner Theane Evangelis has been profiled by the Daily Journal [PDF] after being named one of its Top 100 Lawyers in California. The publication highlighted some of her most memorable cases including a last-minute defense of Los Angeles city officials' ability to guide homelessness policy and vacating a large punitive damages award levied against UPS.

Theane noted a shift in the litigation her clients now face. "The most important cases now play out in the press and in the political arena as well as in court," she said. "Managing it all is part of the challenge — and the fun."
