Partner Ahmed Baladi, Co-Chair of our Privacy, Cybersecurity, and Data Innovation Practice Group, recently spoke with Reuters about the EU Commission's "Digital Omnibus," a series of proposals designed to simplify AI and privacy regulations. Reuters reports that the package faces criticism from "the tech sector for not going far enough and consumer groups for bowing to Big Tech."

"The Commission appears to be aiming for simpler, more predictable rules that reduce friction for innovators while keeping core EU safeguards intact," Ahmed said.
