GIBSON DUNN

Gibson Dunn Advised Airbus on Alta Ares Partnership

Firm News | August 3, 2026

Gibson Dunn advised Airbus Defence and Space on its strategic partnership with Alta Ares, a France-based company developing AI-powered hardware and agnostic software for intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (ISR) missions and counter-drone operations.

The transaction follows Alta Ares's Series A financing round, backed by the new E2D growth fund dedicated to defence and dual-use technologies, spearheaded by Airbus.

The corporate team advising Airbus was led in London by partner James Cameron and in Paris by Ariel Harroch. The team also included of counsel Clarisse Bouchetemblé and associate Alison Pereira Martins. Partner Vera Lukic and associate Thomas Baculard advised on digital and technology aspects, partner Adam Dawson and associate Wladimir Soltmann advised on French and EU competition law, and partner Jérôme Delaurière advised on tax.

Related People

James Cameron

Ariel Harroch

Clarisse Bouchetemblé

Alison Pereira Martins

Vera Lukic

Thomas Baculard

Adam Dawson

Wladimir Soltmann

Jérôme Delaurière

Related Capabilities

Mergers and Acquisitions

Private Equity

Transportation and Space

Robotics

© 2026 Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher LLP. All rights reserved. For contact and other information, please visit us at www.gibsondunn.com. | www.gibsondunn.com