GIBSON DUNN

Gibson Dunn Advises Exodus Movement on Steps Toward Texas Redomestication

Firm News | December 1, 2025

Gibson Dunn represented Exodus Movement, Inc., a leading self-custodial cryptocurrency platform, in connection with its proposed redomestication from Delaware to Texas.

Exodus has received stockholder approval and expects to complete the redomestication in December 2025. This reflects a broader trend of companies choosing to take advantage of Texas's favorable business climate and supportive regulatory environment.

Our team included partners Harrison Tucker, Gerry Spedale, and Hillary Holmes; of counsel Sheldon Nagesh; and associates Clint Eastman and Jason Ferrari.

Gibson Dunn is well positioned to advise companies on redomestication to Texas. Our team includes nationally recognized thought leaders who have helped shape Texas's evolving legal framework and maintain strong connections with the business leaders and other key stakeholders shaping the state's future.
