Law360

For the 11th time, Gibson Dunn has been named a Firm of the Year by Law360 [PDF], taking a top spot with the most 2025 Practice Group of the Year honors. Our firm was recognized for its many successes in seven categories: Appellate, Employment, Energy, Intellectual Property, Life Sciences, Media & Entertainment, and Telecommunications.

"We have a truly integrated global platform, but what matters most is how effectively we use it — matching the right expertise to each matter and executing at the highest level," said Chair and Managing Partner Barbara Becker.

Barbara noted that the multiple Practice Group of the Year wins highlight the firm's ability to use its expertise in various industries to create optimal legal teams that can stretch across different offices and practices: "We bring the full strength of Gibson Dunn's integrated platform to these industries, across litigation, regulatory, investigations and transactions, delivering excellence for our clients."
