

Gibson Dunn Recognized in World Intellectual Property Review – USA Trade Secrets 2024

Accolades | December 6, 2024

World Intellectual Property Review

Gibson Dunn was highly recommended in World Intellectual Property Review's inaugural USA Trade Secrets 2024 rankings. Angelique Kaounis, Kieran Kieckhefer, Ilissa Samplin and Orin Snyder were noted for their trade secret work along with patent litigators Josh Krevitt, Stuart Rosenberg and Brian Rosenthal, who support the trade secrets practice. The guide “. . . showcase[es] the leading law firms and lawyers at the forefront of trade secrets law in the United States.” In the publication, a client noted: “I look for forum experience (including knowledge of the judge and local rules), fluency with the legal standards (particularly around discovery), comfort with technology, and the ability to grasp quickly the business's risk appetite in the dispute and translate that into strategy. I would strongly recommend including Gibson in your ranking.” The guide was published on December 2, 2024. Gibson Dunn's Trade Secrets practice is a cornerstone of the firm's IP services, providing clients with robust protection and strategic advice. The firm's combination of litigation prowess, advisory expertise and global reach make it a go-to for businesses looking to safeguard their valuable trade secrets. Our team has litigated a broad range of trade secret disputes, and have won major victories for our clients in federal and state courts and in arbitration.

Related People

Angelique Kaounis

Ilissa Samplin

Orin Snyder

Josh Krevitt

Stuart M. Rosenberg

Brian Rosenthal

Related Capabilities

Trade Secrets