Law360

Partners John Pollack and George Sampas recently spoke to Law360 about the launch of our new Aerospace and Defense Industry Group. The group brings together a multidisciplinary team of partners across our global offices and a wide range of practice areas to support clients in navigating this complex and rapidly evolving sector. Speaking to the publication, John emphasized the firm’s collaborative strength as a foundation for addressing the often complex, multi-faceted challenges clients face. “We’re not unique in our ability to problem-solve, but I think our ability to do so collaboratively, with our team of experts, puts us in a fantastic position to help clients in this space.” Other group members include partners Madalyn Miller, James Cameron, and David Wilf. They are also co-chairs of Gibson Dunn's transportation and space group.
