In an interview with Law.com, partner Kristen Limarzi, Global Co-Chair of our Antitrust and Competition Practice Group, shared her journey into leadership and how early exposure to the field “supercharged” her interest. Kristen reflected on how her role as practice group leader has broadened her perspective and deepened her engagement. “I’ve found that serving as a practice group leader provides another lens in which to view the breadth of the practice,” she said. “I think taking a wide view is particularly important for those practicing antitrust, as our work can cross the transactional, litigation, and criminal defense spectrums. By taking a holistic perspective to the practice, I can better spot trends and opportunities — and I find that extremely satisfying.”
