New York Real Estate Journal

Partner Krystyna Blakeslee has been featured in the New York Real Estate Journal's spotlight on 2025 Women in Commercial Real Estate. Reflecting on the industry and her career, Krystyna cited resilience as a key to success: "It's the ability to adapt well to adversity, stress, tragedy and so on ... the tool that will help navigate life's ups and downs, both in a professional and personal sense."

Krystyna also advised women considering a career in commercial real estate to "Build a circle of people you trust and truly support — and be just as committed to their success as they are to yours. This network will help you with your 'resilience' and provide a safe space that will be there for you for the good times and the bad."
