Caroline Bakewell is an associate in the Houston office of Gibson Dunn, where she practices with the firm's Mergers and Acquisitions and Private Equity practice groups. Caroline advises both public and private companies, as well as private equity firms and their portfolio companies, in connection with mergers, acquisitions, restructurings, and other complex corporate transactions. She also maintains an active pro bono practice, assisting clients with asylum applications and other immigration matters.

Caroline earned her Juris Doctor from New York University School of Law, where she served as a Managing Editor of the NYU Journal of Law & Business and was recipient of the Flora S. and Jacob L. Newman Prize for the greatest contribution by a third-year editor to the Journal. While at NYU, she also participated in the International Transactions Clinic, served as Treasurer and Co-President of the Texas Law Society, worked as a teaching assistant, and was an admissions ambassador. She received her Bachelor of Business Administration, magna cum laude, in Baylor Business Fellows, Finance, and Economics, with minors in Spanish and Mathematics, from Baylor University.

Caroline is admitted to practice in the State of Texas.
