San Francisco

Tony Bedel is an associate in the San Francisco office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, where he practices in the firm's Litigation Department. He regularly defends companies, boards of directors, and executives in high stakes business disputes within the technology industry. Tony is an active member of the firm's Privacy, Cybersecurity, and Data Innovation, Emerging Companies, and Artificial Intelligence Practice Groups. He is currently on secondment.

He has represented clients in a variety of complex litigation, intellectual property, white collar (including internal investigations), data privacy, cybersecurity, class actions, legal malpractice, regulatory, and artificial intelligence matters. Tony has experience in all stages of litigation including trial and appellate work. He also maintains an active pro bono practice in asylum claims at the trial and appellate level.

Tony received his J.D., Order of the Coif, from the University of California, Berkeley School of Law in 2018, where he was an Editor for the Berkeley Technology Law Journal. The Berkeley Center for Law & Technology awarded him a Law & Technology Certificate for his legal course work. While in law school, Tony earned multiple accolades for his classroom academic performance, including first in class awards for Computer Law; Video Game and Social Media Law; Advertising, Artistic Freedom, and Freedom of Expression; Property; Legal Research; and Legal Profession I & II. He earned his B.A., with honors, from the University of Iowa in 2011. Prior to joining the firm, Tony worked as a Teach for America teacher in Dallas, Texas. In charter and district education environments, he worked as a teacher, operations director, and legal clerk. He is admitted to practice law in the State of California.
