Daniel Boden is an English-qualified associate in the London office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher. He is a member of the firm's Litigation and International Arbitration Groups.

Daniel has broad experience of complex commercial litigation, international arbitration and regulatory and internal investigations, often with a transnational element. Most recently this has included:

- Representing U.S. investors in a large-scale precious metals mining project in a former Soviet Union country in High Court proceedings related to parallel investor-state and commercial arbitration claims.
- Representing ultra-high net worth individuals in a succession dispute involving a global estate valued in the multiple billions of dollars.
- Representing a major investment bank in a successful resolution of High Court proceedings brought on behalf of a large number of claimants against several banks arising from alleged antitrust violations relating to LIBOR manipulation.
- Representing an Indian wealth and asset management company in a successful resolution of claims brought in the Commercial Court alleging fraudulent misrepresentation, deceit and intimidation.

Daniel also works on ESG and human rights issues and has experience in the financial services and sports sectors. He also maintains an active pro bono practice.

Daniel trained at Gibson Dunn and holds a first-class honours degree in Hispanic Studies with a distinction in spoken Spanish from the University of Nottingham.
