Jack DiSorbo is a litigation associate in the Houston office of Gibson Dunn. Jack's practice consists of trials and appeals in complex commercial litigation. He has represented clients on the plaintiff- and defendant-side in federal and state courts across the country in wide-ranging cases—including antitrust, oil and gas, trade secrets, intellectual property, and business torts.

He has particular experience with the newly-created Texas Business Court, and serves as a special advisor to the Business Court Subcommittee of the Texas Supreme Court Advisory Committee. His article "A Primer on the Texas Business Court" was published in the Baylor Law Review and has been cited in multiple Business Court opinions and featured in Business Court CLEs. Jack also maintains an active pro bono practice, focusing on religious liberty and other constitutional issues.

Jack regularly writes legal articles on civil procedure and legal history. His recent works have also been selected for publication by the Journal of Supreme Court History, Georgetown Journal of Law & Public Policy, and Heritage Guide to the Constitution (third edition).
