Washington, D.C.

Michael R. Dziuban is a senior associate in the Washington, D.C. office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, where he practices in the firm's litigation department. He represents and counsels clients in white-collar defense and civil enforcement matters, including investigations and lawsuits under the False Claims Act and related state laws. Michael has advised healthcare companies, government contractors, technology companies, and individual executives at various stages of False Claims Act enforcement, engaging with both government agencies and qui tam relators. He has particular experience handling False Claims Act matters for clients participating in federal healthcare programs, including cases involving allegations of the Anti-Kickback Statute and requirements related to coverage for prescription drugs. Additionally, Michael regularly advises clients on corporate compliance matters related to healthcare fraud and abuse laws.

As part of his broader practice, Michael has guided clients through government and internal investigations under anti-corruption and anti-money laundering laws, advised clients in government contracts disputes, and counseled companies on their corporate compliance programs. He has also dedicated significant time to pro bono criminal defense work at Gibson Dunn, serving on two teams that each won the firm's Frank Wheat Memorial Award. One of those matters culminated in the release of a client after 20 years of wrongful imprisonment.

Michael received his law degree cum laude from Harvard Law School in 2015. Between college and law school, he worked in the Middle East Program at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, D.C., where he researched and wrote on U.S. policy in the Middle East.

He is admitted to practice in the District of Columbia and the Commonwealth of Virginia.
