New York

Liam A. Fine is a litigation associate in the New York office of Gibson Dunn. His practice focuses on complex, high-stakes commercial litigation and investigations for clients across a range of industries, including securities and financial services, insurance, and technology. Liam also maintains an active pro bono practice focused largely on constitutional claims and gun safety. In 2024, he helped represent the Giffords Law Center to Prevent Gun Violence in a successful administrative law challenge seeking to compel the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives to sufficiently regulate AR-style “ghost guns.” Liam also serves as a member of Gibson Dunn’s Associates Committee.

Liam served as a law clerk to the Honorable Naomi Reice Buchwald of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York.

Liam received his Juris Doctor from Columbia Law School in 2023, where he was recognized as a James Kent Scholar. Liam also served as the Media Editor of the Columbia Law Review, which published his Note on climate resilience in the electric utility industry. Prior to law school, Liam worked as an investment banking analyst at Lazard, where he focused on Mergers and Acquisitions and Corporate Restructurings in the Power, Energy, and Infrastructure sectors.

Liam received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Amherst College in 2017, where he graduated Phi Beta Kappa and double majored in Economics and Political Science.

Liam is a member of the New York Bar and is admitted to practice before the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit and the United States District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York.
