New York

Zoey Clark is an associate in the New York office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher. She is a member of the Firm's Litigation Department, as well as the Privacy, Cybersecurity and Data Innovation Practice Group, the White Collar Defense and Investigations Group, and the Securities Enforcement Group.

Zoey has represented a diverse range of clients, including technology companies and hedge funds, in complex litigation and regulatory investigations. She has experience advising clients, preparing witnesses for depositions, drafting motions, and leading all aspects of discovery, including responses and objections, document collections, reviews, and productions.

Substantively, she has experience representing clients in connection with consumer protection investigations, including those brought by multistate coalitions of attorneys general, as well as advising clients in compliance with securities regulations and at all stages of insider trading investigations.

Zoey received her Juris Doctor, magna cum laude, in 2016 from Georgetown University Law Center, where she was elected to the Order of the Coif. At Georgetown, she served as an Articles Editor for the American Criminal Law Review and as a Legal Research and Writing Fellow. Zoey received her Bachelor of Arts, magna cum laude, from Bucknell University in 2013.

She is admitted to practice in the State of New York and before the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York.
