Houston

Iris Hill Crabtree is an associate in the Houston office of Gibson Dunn. Her corporate practice focuses on leveraged financings and investments across industries. She represents public and private borrowers, private equity investors and other clients in connection with credit facilities and note purchase facilities, including acquisition financings, reserve-based/asset-based lending facilities and other forms of senior and subordinated debt financing.

In 2022, Iris received her Juris Doctor, cum laude, from University of Houston Law Center, where she participated in the part-time program, working full time during the day and attending school in the evening. While in law school, Iris served as General Administrative Editor of the Houston Business and Tax Law Journal. Prior to and during law school, she worked as a consultant in the technology sector assisting oil and gas majors with integrating digital solutions into their core business. She later went on to lead the US retail digital strategy for an oil and gas major while finishing law school. Iris received her Bachelor of Science in Industrial Engineering, magna cum laude, from Texas A&M University in 2012.
