Tim Loose is a partner in the Los Angeles office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher. He is the co-chair of the firm's Consumer Products and Retail Group, and sits on the steering committee of the firm's Class Actions Practice Group. He has served key roles in several of the firm's most high-profile matters, and is a trusted adviser to companies in the consumer product, automotive, technology, healthcare, and food and beverage industries.

Tim has been recognized by Law360 as a "Rising Star" in Class Actions, and also as a "Rising Star" in Cybersecurity & Privacy. He was named to Global Data Review's "40 Under 40" list, as one of "the 40 individuals who represent the best and the brightest of the data law bar around the world."

Tim has decades of experience helping his clients navigate through complex class action litigation, often defeating those matters at early stages of the litigation, well before a class is certified. In those instances where there have been certified classes, he has succeeded in obtaining decertification, and when necessary, he has successfully defended his clients all the way through trial.

Representative Matters Include:
