Washington, D.C.

Alexander “Sandy” Moss is an associate in the Washington, D.C. office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher. He is a member of the firm’s Litigation Department, and his practice focuses on white collar defense and investigations.

His experience includes conducting internal investigations for multinational corporate clients, representing corporate and individual clients in government investigations involving the Department of Justice, Securities and Exchange Commission, and other regulatory and enforcement agencies, and advising clients regarding the development of their compliance and ethics programs. He has participated in investigations involving alleged violations of anti-money laundering laws and regulations, the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, and alleged securities and tax fraud.

Alexander received his Juris Doctor, magna cum laude, from Georgetown University Law Center, where he was inducted into the Order of the Coif, served as an Executive Online Editor for Content for The Georgetown Law Journal, and published a student note regarding the interplay between forum non conveniens and judgment recognition and enforcement in transnational litigation. During law school, he also served as an intern for the Asset Forfeiture and Money Laundering Section of the U.S. Department of Justice.

He graduated from the Walsh School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University, where he received a Bachelor of Science in Foreign Service, cum laude, and a Certificate in Eurasian, Russian, and Central European Studies.

Alexander is admitted to practice in Maryland and the District of Columbia.
