Alin Potra is a senior associate in the New York office of Gibson Dunn. He is a member of the firm's Finance Practice Group.

Alin represents financial sponsors and lenders across a wide range of complex credit and financing structures involving investment funds, including private equity funds, private credit funds, secondaries funds and real estate funds. His practice includes advising on subscription credit facilities, NAV-based facilities, hybrid facilities, liquidity facilities, GP financings and employee co-investment facilities. He also has significant experience structuring and implementing sophisticated rated note feeder and collateralized fund obligations transactions and related offerings.

Alin received his Juris Doctor (J.D.) and his Bachelor of Civil Law (B.C.L.) from McGill University.

Prior to joining Gibson Dunn, Alin was an associate at another leading international law firm in New York as a member of the Finance practice group.
