Denver

Nathan L. Powell is an associate in the Denver office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher. He is a member of the Firm's Litigation Department, as well as the Privacy, Cybersecurity, and Consumer Protection, Environmental, and Appellate and Constitutional Law Practice Groups. Nathan has helped multinational companies across a variety of industries litigate complex commercial matters at the district court and appellate levels. His cross-disciplinary practice includes experience with trade secret litigation, environmental torts, contract disputes, data privacy and consumer protection, and securities matters.

Representative matters include:

- Representing a leading consumer electronics company in a high-stakes trade secrets litigation against a medical device manufacturer
- Defending a major social media company in a consumer protection lawsuit filed by the D.C. attorney general
- Representing a business executive charged with wire fraud in an appeal to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals
- Representing luxury hotel owners in state court litigation to clear title involving the filing of fraudulent transfer deeds
- Representing a prominent social media company in a large-scale internal investigation following allegations of consumer data misuse
- Defending a global pharmaceutical and medical device company in connection with an investigation by the SEC and DOJ into alleged securities fraud and FCPA violations
- Representing a recycling company in litigation relating to an alleged breach of a long term supply contract
- Representing a major energy company in multiple environmental tort litigations and appeals

Nathan graduated cum laude from Georgetown University Law Center in 2017, where he was a senior editor of the Georgetown Journal of Legal Ethics and member of the Global Law Scholars. He earned his B.A. in Psychology, with a minor in Spanish, from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 2009.

Nathan is admitted to practice law in Colorado and California.
