Palo Alto

Swathi Sreerangarajan is a litigation associate in the Palo Alto office with a focus on complex litigation matters, including class actions, multidistrict litigation, and mass arbitrations. Her practice is anchored in oral and written advocacy at critical stages of litigation such as appeals, dispositive motions, and trials. She has defended leading technology companies in several high-stakes matters involving data privacy issues, advertising technology, the gig economy, and consumer protection laws.

Swathi earned her J.D. in 2023 from Santa Clara Law School, graduating at the top of the class and receiving the Mabie Outstanding Graduate award. Swathi received a PhD in English literature from the University of Pittsburgh in 2016 and worked as a writer and college lecturer before law school.

Swathi is admitted to practice in the State of California, the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California, and the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. She maintains an active pro bono practice focused on appellate advocacy and impact litigation.
