New York

Daniel Strellman is a litigation associate in the New York office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher.

He joined the firm in 2022 after serving as a law clerk to the Honorable Joe B. McDade of the United States District Court for the Central District of Illinois.

Daniel earned his Juris Doctor cum laude from the University of Michigan Law School in 2021, where he served as an Executive Editor of the Michigan Journal of Environmental and Administrative Law and was honored for exemplary performance in legal practice. While in law school, he co-authored a paper published in UCLA's Criminal Justice Law Review regarding the effects of court fines and fees on litigants with substance use disorder. In addition, Daniel served low-income individuals and minors through the Civil-Criminal Litigation and Juvenile Justice Clinics.

Between his undergraduate education and law school, Daniel worked in employment litigation in New York City.

In 2016, he earned a bachelor's degree in philosophy and sociology from Duke University, where he received both the Mark D. MacFarlane and MacAnderson Scholarships and was repeatedly included on the Dean's List.

Daniel is admitted to practice law in the State of New York and before the United States District Courts for the Eastern and Southern Districts of New York.
