Harrison Tucker is a partner in the Houston office of Gibson Dunn. He practices in the firm's Capital Markets and Securities Regulation and Corporate Governance practice groups. He has extensive experience advising on IPOs across a range of industries and regularly represents issuers and investment banking firms in equity and debt offerings, including Rule 144A transactions. His practice also encompasses general corporate matters, including Exchange Act reporting, stock exchange compliance, corporate governance and beneficial ownership reporting. In addition, he works closely with Gibson Dunn's bankruptcy and restructuring team, advising on applicable securities law issues.

Harrison received his J.D. from the University of Houston Law Center in 2008, where he was elected to the Order of the Coif and Order of Barons. While in law school, he served as a Member of the Houston Law Review. Prior to law school, he graduated from Texas A&M University in 2005, where he received his B.A. in history and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Harrison maintains an active pro bono practice. For example, he has represented U.S. military veterans though the National Veterans Legal Service Program in seeking discharge upgrades and enhanced disability compensation. He is also active in the Houston Volunteers Lawyers program sponsored by the Houston Bar Association.
