

Managing IP Names Brian Rosenthal as its 2024 New York Intellectual Property Litigator of the Year

Accolades | April 26, 2024

Managing IP

Managing IP named Brian Rosenthal as Intellectual Property - Litigator of the Year for New York at its annual Americas Awards event, recognizing the biggest achievements and developments in the IP sector over the past year. The awards were announced on April 25, 2024. Brian Rosenthal is a trial lawyer with a particular emphasis on patent litigation. His patent litigation practice has spanned a wide range of technologies, with a concentration on computer software, electronics, and medical devices. He also has substantial experience handling Patent Office validity proceedings including inter partes review and post grant review petitions, most often in parallel with ongoing high-stakes litigation. His practice also includes strategic counseling and licensing related to intellectual property matters.
