NYREJ

Partner Matthew Gibbons is featured in NYREJ's Ones to Watch: Rising Stars, the publication's annual list recognizing emerging professionals across the commercial real estate industry. The publication notes that Matthew "has established himself as a trusted advisor on some of the market's most sophisticated real estate finance transactions" and that he "exemplifies the next generation of leaders in real estate finance."

Speaking with the publication, Matthew commented on the transformative nature of AI in real estate transactions. "While already transforming data analysis and decision-making, its impact is just beginning in underwriting, risk assessment, and asset management," he said. "Clients are increasingly asking how AI can be integrated into investment strategies and operations. I look forward to incorporating these tools into my practice as the industry evolves and as technology becomes more central to structuring and executing transactions."
