Media Spotlight Gibson Dunn's Growing Fund Finance Practice With Arrival of Andy Hogan

In the Media | September 29, 2026

The recent arrival of finance and investment funds partner Andy Hogan in Gibson Dunn's New York office generated coverage from leading legal and industry publications, with reports noting the firm's expanding fund finance capabilities and evolving client needs.

IFLR reported that Andy joined the firm to meet "rising client demands at the intersection of fund and structured finance." The publication quoted Andy: "Fund finance is evolving rapidly, with traditional product categories increasingly converging with structured finance and securitisation."

The Drawdown placed Andy's arrival in the context of the firm's broader growth, citing the additions of partner Duncan McKay, GP stakes partner Christopher Scavone, and an investment funds team in Paris.

Additionally, New York Law Journal covered Andy's arrival in a piece focusing on finance partner moves across Big Law, observing that his move "highlights the fierce competition to both attract and retain talent in finance practices."
