Partners Rachel Brass, Christopher Dusseault, and Samuel Liversidge have been recognized as Top Antitrust Lawyers by the Daily Journal. The list honors lawyers "who navigate complex merger reviews, monopolization claims and price-fixing investigations that reshape markets and protect competition."

Rachel is Global Co-Chair of the firm's Antitrust and Competition Practice Group. She is a member of the firm's Litigation Department, where her practice focuses on litigation and investigations in the antitrust, class actions, and employment areas. Rachel has extensive experience representing international and domestic clients in high-stakes appellate litigation in the U.S. Supreme Court, as well as federal and state appellate courts throughout the United States.

Chris is an experienced trial and appellate lawyer whose practice focuses on antitrust litigation, particularly leading the defense of large antitrust class actions, as well as other high-stakes business disputes. In addition to litigating cases from inception, he is often brought in by clients who have lost a jury trial and are facing a verdict in the hundreds-of-millions or billions of dollars to reverse the outcome.

Sam is Co-Chair of the firm's Litigation Department and a member of the Antitrust and Class Action Practice Groups. An experienced litigator and trial lawyer whose practice focuses on antitrust, unfair competition, and other complex litigation, Sam has represented some of the world's leading companies in connection with some of their most significant matters. He has successfully litigated and tried claims ranging from breach of contract and fraud to alleged monopolization, conspiracy, exclusive dealing, predatory pricing and tying.
