GIBSON DUNN

Partner Hillary Holmes on Texas as an Attractive Corporate Home

In the Media | June 10, 2025

Financial Times

The passage of laws that enhance governance of Texas corporations and discourage frivolous shareholder litigation, along with a commercially minded government and the development of the business courts to hear complex commercial disputes, have enhanced Texas's "aura as a business-friendly state," partner Hillary Holmes told the Financial Times. "By providing greater legal certainty, reducing frivolous litigation risks and enhancing governance, Texas has created a compelling case for businesses to consider the state as their corporate home."

Read the full article, "How Corporate America Learnt Not to Mess with Texas," in the Financial Times (subscription required).

Related People

Hillary H. Holmes

© 2026 Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher LLP. All rights reserved. For contact and other information, please visit us at www.gibsondunn.com. | www.gibsondunn.com