Gibson Dunn has played an active role in guiding clients through the strategic considerations associated with shifting corporate domicile from other states to Texas. Our team is has advised several companies regarding whether to move to Texas and preparing to move to Texas. Gibson Dunn lawyers shaped the development of the Texas Business Courts before their commencement in 2024 and have extensive experience with Court since its inception. We have conducted an analysis and provided advice on pending litigation with respect to SB 2337 and with respect to constitutionality and other open questions on other recent changes to the TBOC. We advise corporate clients, as well as proxy firms, institutional shareholders, and others involved with public companies and shareholder relations. Our lawyers closely monitor and advise clients on the evolving Texas legal landscape, including the passage of SB 29 in 2025, which significantly enhanced director protections, reduced exposure to derivative litigation, and codified favorable presumptions under the business judgment rule for Texas entities. We have published extensively on the implications of choosing Texas, helping clients understand differences in areas such as choice of law, use of the Texas Business Court, successor liability, sandbagging, material adverse effect provisions, and lost premium damages.

Our lawyers continue to play an integral role in the development of Texas as a destination for US businesses and a model for a sophisticated corporate legal system. Examples follow:

- Gibson Dunn lawyers have connections with key Texas policy makers and have partnered with other lawmakers and Texas State Senators to draft and implement amendments to the Texas Code of Business Organizations.
- Gibson Dunn partners helped shape the legislation that, in 2023, ultimately created the Texas Business Courts, which already are transforming the nature of Texas commercial litigation and restoring balance to many jurisdictions. Gibson Dunn partners have active litigation matters in a number of those courts already.
- Our lawyers know on a personal level the business court judges in Austin, Houston, and Dallas—the three major courts—as well as all three justices on the 15th court of appeals.
- One of our Texas partners created the premier corporate governance program at Texas A&M Law School designed to bring together local and national expertise on the Texas corporate law market and support the Texas Business Court and its judges.
