Texas Lawyer interviewed members of our Litigation team after Gibson Dunn was named a Texas Litigation Departments of the Year: Class Action winner at the 2026 Texas Legal Awards. The team noted the rapid emergence of generative AI as both a source of new litigation risk and a tool transforming legal practice: “Clients increasingly sought advice on evolving AI-related legal issues, while the department also encountered AI-generated pleadings, demand letters, and other litigation materials that required careful evaluation. In response, the department remained at the forefront of legal and technological developments, leveraging appropriate AI-enabled tools to enhance efficiency and deliver value to clients while maintaining rigorous attorney oversight and the high standards of quality and strategic judgment expected in complex litigation.”
