

Webcast: The Patchwork Quilt of Whistleblower Programs

Webcasts | May 8, 2025

A growing number of federal, state, and international whistleblower programs create a complex and often overlapping landscape for companies facing potential allegations of misconduct. From programs established to generate enforcement leads for the SEC, CFTC, DOJ, FinCEN, and the IRS, to analogous international whistleblower mechanisms, each program has its own incentives, protections, and reporting mechanisms. These nuances result in significant enforcement risks for businesses across industries, but also opportunities to demonstrate effective compliance controls. This webcast explores the evolving whistleblower framework both in the United States and abroad, recent whistleblower trends, and best practices for managing whistleblower complaints while mitigating legal and reputational exposure.
